

Since its inception in 2000, Stride Marketing has grown from a small business to a national organisation driving the future of our clients and our people forward. The success of the organisation has always been based on its people, and with the strength of the people involved at its all time high we're now implementing systems and procedures to take this company to the next level and beyond.

Stride Marketing owes much of this success to its innovative and progressive approach to people. Our no seniority organisational structure enables the delivery of a comprehensive Business Development Programme and career orientation system, providing individuals with the opportunity to flourish and succeed.

With the introduction of the cycle of development programme revolutionising the business and the strategic planning that is now being implemented, we believe that we have struck the right balance. The balance between raw entrepreneurial flare and a great infrastructure provides us with the ability to create, innovate and succeed in a competitive environment, thus providing us with the stability to launch our next period of growth.

There are plenty of ordinary jobs in Newcastle and throughout the UK, but if you want something that will continually challenge and stimulate, then few companies can offer what Stride Marketing can offer.

Sales & Marketing Jobs in Newcastle exist, but most of them lead to a dead end. If you are looking for a challenge and a real business opportunity... send us some details so we can talk with you.